

Client: Premier Inn

- This building was a former Halls of Residence for the University of Warwick and had been acquired by Premier Inns. The scope of works included removing a concrete staircase that was non-compliant with current building regulation applicable to Hotel accommodation and was also located in the wrong place for the Hotel
- The complexity was British Telecoms regional telephone exchange which was located next door in an adjoining building where BT had their main servers located. Disruption had to be avoided as BT enforced a £15K per hour penalty upon RVC should their activities affect or disrupt BT's business in any way. The project was completed swiftly without causing any disturbance whatsoever
